

Principal Arboricultural Consultant – Full Time, Permanent

About Us

Ascerta is a small company with big clients and even bigger ambitions. Covering a wide spectrum of projects across the UK we've been supporting the construction industry for decades. Although we're based in Merseyside, we're active on projects across the whole country and have a sister company in London giving us excellent geographical coverage. To help with our growth plans, we're looking for a Principal Consultant to lead our Arboricultural section and to be a key person of influence in the way we grow our business.

About You

If you're already a Principal Arboriculturist in your current role, or perhaps a Senior looking to make that next career step, we'd like to hear from you, particularly if:

- You know BS5837: 2012 inside out and back to front;
- You've got a great understanding of modern arboriculture;
- You've got a great understanding of the planning system;
- You know the difference between a Tree Preservation Order & Conservation Area;
- You have a pragmatic approach to tree management;
- You can talk to construction professionals at all levels in language they understand;
- You've got an empathic approach to client projects;
- You don't mind a bit of hard work;
- You love working with allied professionals;
- You love making things work;
- You've got great attention to detail;
- You can think outside the box when required;
- You want to work for a company that will actively support your career development.

You'll probably be educated to degree level with a minimum of 6 years' experience of delivering a wide range of projects in the UK and be either Chartered or keen to make that next step in your professional development.

About the Role

You'll be delivering high-quality, customer-focused advice and support to clients across the construction and land management sectors, as well as the provision of advice to mortgage lenders and insurers. The production of a full spectrum of arboricultural outputs, from AIA, to Method Statement, to site supervision and contract management will be second nature to you, as will the ability to represent our business professionally from initial client contact through to involvement in appeal work if required.

You'll be a key player in the growth of the business so you'll need to be able to work to a business plan and manage projects to a successful conclusion with the resources available to you. You'll be expected to have a natural aptitude for forging great working relationships with client teams, to lead a developing in-house team and to be one of life's natural problem solvers.

About Your Development

Delivering on the above successfully and becoming key member of our team, we'll support you in your career (and personal) development so that you become an integral part of our business journey and enjoy the long term benefits that will bring.

About the Location

Although we're based in Merseyside, and although the majority of our work is in the north west, we do have projects far and wide. We'd therefore like it if you were within a reasonable distance of the office, or willing to relocate to somewhere in the north west so that you're not spending half your life on the UK's motorway network. You'll be home-based with the obvious need for site visits, but you'll still need to be local enough for our regular get-togethers.

About the Salary

Starting in the range £30,000.00 - £40,000.00 plus benefits.

About the Application

If you're interested and comfortable with the above, send your CV and a covering letter stating why you think you'd fit in well with our team to info@landscapetreeseecology.com

Closing Date for Applications

6th August 2021

e icf@charteredforesters.org
t 0131 240 1425
w www.charteredforesters.org
59 George Street, Edinburgh EH2 2JG
Incorporated by Royal Charter 1982